IMAGINE CASTLE CHASE!

Long ago, a kingdom great was fabled 'cross the lands

'Till one day it was attacked by fierce and ruthless bands.

First, warriors of evil bone rode forth on hooves of thunder,

And then the greedy trolls arrived
to loot and steal and plunder.

The King fought back, as did his knights, each one both brave and bold.

But now they've captured our fair
Queen, to trade for all our gold!

So bravely goes the Golden Knight,
to seek the Troll King's lair...

Though many perils lie in store, to face them he will dare.

And with him goes my own good self, the kingdom's jolly Jester—

To pass the time along the way,
with riddles you I'll pester! ●

LEGO® DESIGNER Q&A: INSIDE THE TEMPLE OF DOOM™!

Racing out of the famous mine-tunnel chase scene from the movie Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom, 7199 The Temple of Doom is one of the biggest and best LEGO Indiana Jones sets ever...and the LEGO Club has the exclusive behind-the-bricks scoop on its creation, straight from model designer Hans Henrik Sidenius!

Q: What scene from the movie does the new LEGO set represent?

A: In the movie, Indiana Jones and his friends travel to Pankot Palace in India to find the stolen Sankara stones. The set recreates the Temple of Doom hidden under the palace, where Indy, Short Round and Willie must get back the stones and escape from the evil priest Mola Ram and his henchmen using a runaway mine car.

Q: Since you designed it, please tell us about the model!

A: At the top of the set is the temple where Mola Ram keeps the secret Sankara stones. When you push the back of the temple's big skull, the "eyes" slide out to let Indy get the stones. There's a trap door in the floor that can drop a minifigure into the mine carts below. Surrounding the temple is the underground mine track, and you can use the mine carts to travel all through the booby-trapped mine.

Q: What minifigures are included in the set?

A: The set includes Indiana Jones with new decoration (he loses his jacket and gets his shirt sleeve torn off in the movie), his kid sidekick Short Round, Willie Scott, and the evil Mola Ram with a pair of temple guards.

department. I built many different track variations, and while the set's instructions show one way that you can build them together, you are always free to make up your own different versions. There are lots of functions along the track, too. You can block them, or release the trap in the mine tower to let the rocks fall down on the tracks...and anyone rolling on them!

Q: What's so special about the new track pieces in this set?

A: The new track system is 6 modules wide, while the old system is 8 wide. Because it's more narrow and includes pieces with curves and slopes, it opens up lots of new possibilities for building tracks for trains and other vehicles. You can only get the new track elements in this set!

New 6 stud track system.

Q: What are some of your favorite things about the Temple of Doom set?

A: I love all the new minifigures, especially Mola Ram, who was created by graphic designer Chriss Bonven Johansen. The set has a brand new track system for LEGO rails. It was amazing and so cool when I got hold of the first new track elements from the production

Q: Was there anything that you thought you wouldn't be able to do, but figured out anyway?

A: Yes, that happens a lot when you design LEGO sets. When you're faced with a building challenge, you sometimes think, "How am I going to create that?" But that's the cool thing about LEGO building. When you play around with the bricks, you can always find a way to build the ideas you have!

Q: What would you like to say to all of the LEGO Club members who are building and playing with the Temple of Doom set right now?

A: Use your imagination and have great fun! 🧱

And that's not all Hans Henrik had to say! For the full interview, visit www.LEGOclub.com and use
